A large red arrow points from the search bar area down to the "Interlibrary Loan" link in the "Services" menu.

Below the search bar, there is a section titled "News, Exhibits & Events:" with a link "Summon is now Library Esearch [read...]" and "Events | More News 6".

Finding materials on a subject

Tips

- Explore search terms - 1
 - Translate YOUR topic into the language used by the database, often referred to as Subject Headings or Descriptors
 - For example, in the library catalog the subject heading Education, Urban retrieves more relevant items than the keyword Urban Education
 - Be alert for synonyms, as well as words that might be slightly broader or narrower than your original search term(s)

Finding materials on a subject

Tips

- Explore search terms - 2
 - Sometimes your topic is very new or specific and there is no appropriate database subject heading/descriptor. Be alert for the terms authors use to describe your topic, and then combine those multiple terms using the database OR connector.
 - For example:
paired reading OR partner reading OR peer reading OR dialogic reading OR buddy reading OR reading buddies

Finding BOOKS on a subject: Starting search tools

1) EMU Library Catalog

The screenshot shows the EMU Library Catalog homepage. At the top, there is a blue header with the word "LIBRARY" in white. To the right of the header, it says "Monday July 18" and "Library Hours: 7:30am to 1". Below the header is a navigation bar with buttons for "Articles & More", "Books", "Databases", "Journals by Title", and "Research Guides". The "Books" button is highlighted in yellow. Below the navigation bar is a search box with the text "Find Books and more in the Library Catalog" in yellow. The search box contains a text input field, a dropdown menu set to "Keyword Anywhere", and a "Search" button. To the right of the search box are links for "More Catalog Searches >>" and "MeLCat >>". Below the search box is the text "Find books, videos, course reserves, and more."

2) WorldCat (via FirstSearch)

The screenshot shows the WorldCat search interface. At the top, there are "Search" and "Clear" buttons. Below that is the "Search in database:" section, which is set to "WorldCat" (Updated: 2010-07-03) and describes it as the "OCLC catalog of books and other materials in libraries worldwide". The "Search for:" section has three input fields, each with a "Keyword" dropdown menu and a search icon. The "and" dropdowns are set to "and". The "Limit to:" section includes "Year" (format: YYYY-YYYY), "Language" (No Limit, with a link to "Show all languages..."), and "Number of Libraries" (All). The "Limit type to:" section is set to "match any of the following" and includes checkboxes for "Books", "Visual Materials", "Computer Files", "Internet Resources", "Serial Publications", "Sound Recordings", "Archival Materials", "Continually Updated Resources", "Articles", "Musical Scores", and "Maps". The "Subtype limits" section includes "Any Audience", "Any Content", and "Any Format". The "Limit availability to:" section is set to "match any of the following" and includes a checkbox for "Items in my library (EYE, Eastern Michigan University Library)" and a "Library Code" field with a "Find codes..." link. The "Rank by:" section is set to "Number of Libraries". At the bottom, there are "Search" and "Clear" buttons.

According to the No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Act, states are required "...to ensure that poor and minority children are not taught at higher rates than other children by inexperienced, unqualified, or out-of-field teachers..." Although the NCLB law and State Education Agencies (SEAs) currently offer very clear definitions of "highly-qualified" teachers, "teacher quality" remains a contested term—particularly at local levels. Findings from this study suggest the definition of teacher quality determines, in large part, the extent to which the geographical distribution of quality is equitable. A large urban district in Los Angeles demonstrates how different the distribution appears with each definition of teacher quality. In this study, the evidence will show that the distribution is more unequal if the district uses a stronger set of criteria for teacher quality than using the weaker proxies for quality such as full-credential and NCLB definitions.

RefWorks

RefWorks is a web-based bibliographic management service that can:

- store and organize the references you collect in the course of your research.
- format bibliographies in hundreds of styles including APA, MLA, and Chicago.
- format in-text citations when you are writing papers
- share your references with others, whether or not they have a RefWorks account

In most cases references can be imported into RefWorks from library databases. No (or minimal) typing! All your references are stored on the RefWorks server, so you can access them from any location with an Internet connection. RefShare is a service that comes with RefWorks that allows you to make the contents of specific RefWorks folders, or your entire RefWorks database, accessible to anyone with an Internet connection.

NEWS - RefWorks 2.0

RefWorks has released a new interface, called RefWorks 2.0. When you login to your RefWorks account you will still default to what is now called the RefWorks Classic interface. However, there will be a link at the top of the screen allowing you to use RefWorks 2.0. You will be able to toggle back and forth between the two interfaces until late in the Fall 2011 semester, when the 2.0 interface will become the default. If you log out of RefWorks while in RefWorks 2.0, RefWorks remembers your selection and will load the 2.0 interface when you next login. However, you will see a link at the top of the screen allowing you to toggle back to RefWorks Classic. The new interface works fine with Write-N-Cite, RefShare, and RefGrab-It, though for now these tools only display in the RefWorks Classic interface.
